I don't know where to start we are in this restaurant many time like in year 1995,1998,2004,5,8 & now. when ever we are in this area for family get together. We like there all people because they speak with you like family member & other best thing about there food if you mention them they can make food like home made,we like the chicken tikka masala, palak paneer,malai kofta,garlic naan, onion naan.Both food and service are excellent. Rasoi has catered food for some events for our family too.

Food is pretty good, tasty and not oil rich as in other restaurants. The service staff is friendly. Plus they sometimes have a promo where if you buy one entree, you get another one for half the price although I believe you need the coupon for that.

Doesn't like itGo To Bollywood Grill insteadby mdorosario (1 review)

I ordered lamb biryani for a potluck today. They just threw in cooked pieces of lamb into previously cooked rice. And then threw raw cashew nuts and raisins and gave it a stir. True biryani has fried cashews, onion strips and raisins. The meat was tough. I requested them to cut the meat into small cubes so that we didn't need knives. They instead put in 3" cubes!

We only ordered from them because the restaurant was on our way. Past experiences with this restaurant have been just as bad. If you want authentic biryani and other South East Asian food, then go to Bollywood grill, a little east of Rasoi.

BTW they do NOT have a childrens menu (unless its a recent addition) and the place is overly cramped. Don't go there in the summer because their AC is under capacity and the food is too spicy. Lotsa sweat x bad AC = awful experience!

The service is decent, but that's the only plus.
